

BRADLEY A. NESTOR, RLA
Senior Director, Site Planning and Design, PGA TOUR

As the PGA TOUR's landscape architect, Brad is responsible for maintaining the design and construction standards of all site and landscape aspects of the Tournament Players Club (TPC) network and PGA TOUR property assets. His responsibilities include the site planning and design of clubhouses, maintenance facilities, golf course outbuildings, entrance features, golf course landscaping and tournament operations plans. He also functions in an oversight role during the construction process, providing such services as plant material tagging and procurement, site inspections, bid administration, and budget/schedule compliance.

Brad Nestor has over 30 years of experience in all aspects of landscape architecture and site planning, including resort and golf planning, multi-family housing, historic landscape research, transportation landscape planning and garden design. He is also an internationally published author with an emphasis on historic gardens. As a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA), Mr. Nestor served as President of the Georgia Chapter from 1997-1998. Before joining PGA TOUR Design Services (DSI), Mr. Nestor spent three years as a landscape architectural consultant to the TOUR.
