Introduced by Council Member Carlucci and Co-Sponsored by Council Members Freeman, Salem, Clark-Murray, Morgan, Pittman, Becton, Boylan, Diamond, Howland, Newby, Priestly Jackson, and Carrico:

RESOLUTION 2022-803-A

A RESOLUTION HONORING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH FLORIDA; PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, in 1969, Jacksonville was the last major city in Florida without a state university. After authorization by the Florida Legislature, a site was selected for the public university by the Board of Regents and approved by the State Board of Education. The 1,000-acre campus was donated by area landowners and the City of Jacksonville, midway between the beaches and the city; and

WHEREAS, under a tight timeline, the university's inaugural president, Dr. Thomas G. Carpenter, hastened to recruit 117 faculty and 150 staff members. On October 2, 1972, the University of North Florida welcomed its first class of 2,027 upper division and master'slevel students, mostly non-traditional older college students living in the Jacksonville area; and

WHEREAS, there were initially only four major buildings on campus, with colleges of Arts and Sciences, Education, and Business Administration. In 1974, an expansion added a library and student services area, and full accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools was approved for both the undergraduate and graduate level programs simultaneously; and

WHEREAS, in 1979, the Osprey swooped in to become UNF's official mascot, winning a write-in vote in a campus-wide election even though there was no sports team to represent at that time. Four years later, the school joined the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, and in 2009 transitioned from NCAA Division II to Division I sports; and

WHEREAS, on June 22, 1980, the Florida Legislature proposed to merge UNF with UF casting doubt on UNF's future. Charter staff member George Corrick and the late Senator Joe Carlucci battled to defeat the bill to ensure UNF's potential to become a fully-fledged four-year university. Though the merger bill passed both houses, it was vetoed by then-Governor Bob Graham. As a result, UNF admitted freshmen and sophomores for the first time in 1984, and by 1995, enrollment exceeded 10,000 students. Two decades after the merger attempt, UNF broke its own commencement record, graduating more than 1,000 students in a single cohort; and

WHEREAS, over the past 50 years, UNF has grown into a vibrant public university and has championed preservation of its natural environment, including the 382-acre Sawmill Slough wetland preserve and miles of nature trails; and

WHEREAS, today, UNF serves more than 17,000 students, employs more than 1,800 faculty and staff members, and offers dozens of undergraduate and graduate programs within six colleges. This year, the school earned its R2 distinction, an honor given to universities with a certain amount of doctoral programs with high research activity. In 2021, U.S. News & World Report ranked UNF 136nd in public universities, and for twelve consecutive years UNF has been ranked among the nation's most military-friendly schools; now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Jacksonville:

Section 1. The City of Jacksonville hereby honors the University of North Florida's Golden Anniversary. Jacksonville City Council commends UNF on its progression from a small commuter campus to a sprawling center of higher learning that includes art, music, athletics, student government and a robust campus life.

Section 2. Effective Date. This Resolution shall become 1 2 effective upon signature by the Mayor or upon becoming effective without the Mayor's signature. 3 4 5 Form Approved: 6 7 /s/ Mary E. Staffopoulos Office of General Counsel 8
