CM Pittman explained the work conducted by the JSEB Special Committee, which was formed to identify any successes and challenges that the JSEB program may have. There was discussion of contracting an updated disparity study to assess program weaknesses, and to replace the stale data from the 2012 study.

CM Dennis talked about his own JSEB experience as a business owner, and mentioned hurtful rumors about an ethical conflict due to his company having City contracts when he was elected in 2015. CM Dennis said that the state Ethics Commission issued an assessment at the time that indicted there were no conflicts and the document is available to the public. CM Dennis also said that he may have additional amendments to this bill to add at the full council meeting next week.

Joey Grieve, CFO, spoke about the JSEB Access to Capital Program Trust Fund as a mechanism to take in donations, and the 51 percent percentage of ownership which should be flexible for businesses owned by multiple partners. CM Dennis asked about JSEB participants who may own multiple businesses. Greg Pease, Chief of Procurement, said that those cases are evaluated individually.
